

Chapter 12. Commonly Found Internet File Types

Across

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. Indicates a RealAudio file. 5. Macromedia product that allows the playing of animations on the Web. 6. Indicates a Microsoft Word formatted file. 9. Microsoft developed this video file format. 11. Graphics image format that supports up to 256 colors in an image. 12. Software used to create an MP3 file from a CD. 16. File extension for text files. 17. GIFs that contain multiple images that can be seen in sequence are _____. 19. File extension for Quicktime movies. | 21. Portable Networks Graphics format. |
|---|---|

Down

2. Computer jargon for the format of plain text files.
3. Netscape invented this language for developing small programs such as animations.
4. Because file extensions convey information about the file contents, they should never be _____.
7. Computer graphics format for photographic quality images.
8. Music synthesizer file format that requires very little bandwidth to transmit.
9. Apple invented this file format to create and play audio files on the Macintosh.
10. Windows bitmap file extension.
13. Acronym and file extension for Hypertext Markup Language files.
14. The most common waveform audio format on PCs.
15. Adobe's format that allows documents to be viewed as they were formatted for printing.
18. Digital video format that is emerging as the international standard.
20. Format that uses MPEG codecs to compress and decompress recorded music.