Join other students, teachers, and experts at Sage City

You may already be familiar with online communities—especially from a support perspective—but Sage City offers more than just product discussion forums. There is a private forum just for instructors and educators, such as yourself, to discuss the Sage software you are using in your classroom, as well as classroom initiatives. In addition, there is an entire "Sage Students" forum specifically designed for students learning and using Sage solutions. Share best practices, get ideas, support, and help.
