

About the Author

Bhagu R Chahar earned his PhD degree in Civil Engineering from Indian Institute of Technology Roorkee. He completed his MTech (Civil Engineering) with specialization in Water Resources Engineering from the Indian Institute of Technology Kharagpur and received his bachelor's degree in Civil Engineering from MBM Engineering College, Jodhpur University, Jodhpur. He started his academic career in February 1992 as Assistant Professor in Civil Engineering, MBM Engineering College, Jodhpur. He then joined the Indian Institute of Technology Delhi (IIT-D) as Assistant Professor in Civil Engineering in 2003. Later in 2008, he became Associate Professor and was then elevated to Professor of Civil Engineering in 2012. He has teaching experience of over 22 years and has guided many masters and doctoral theses. His current areas of research include groundwater modeling, seepage, subsurface drainage, urban drainage, channel design, numerical methods, and so forth. He is recipient of several scholarships and awards including Visiting International Fellowship of EWRI of ASCE, Young Scientist of DST, and AICTE Career Award for Young Teachers. He is also author of more than 110 articles in reputed journals and proceedings and has presented many papers in national and international conferences. He is Fellow of ISH, IWWA and IWRS, and Life Member of ASCE, ISTE, IAH, and IE(I).